

Kobelco makes its debut at Samoter

By Mary BRUNE - Contributing Editor - february 13, 2017

The manufacturer Kobelco Construction Machinery will participate for the first time at the Samoter fair, which will take place from 22 to 25 February in Verona (Italy). The aim is to introduce the Kobelco brand into the Italian market.

Demand for mini excavators and heavy equipment has increased dramatically in Italy over the past three years. With the Kobelco range covering both categories, from small 1-meter short-radius machines for urban sites to large 8.5-t models for quarries and earthworks, the manufacturer considers its participation in Samoter as strategic. They will present their excavator SK180N-10 in a world premiere.

"The SK180N-10 is a high-performance, energy-efficient excavator that is perfectly suited for mountainous areas and its narrow tracks (2,500 mm) allow it to be transported very easily," said Peter Stuijt, product and marketing manager at Kobelco.